

5 Keys To Unlock Your Breakthrough
18th October 2017

Lynne Lee's journal entry

When I was feeling particularly discouraged at the end of September 2017, I woke up around 2 AM and because I couldn't sleep I checked my emails. I opened an email from a friend who said, I just ordered Whole Tones for you, the best soaking music I have ever come across.

I was prompted to listen to the first track which was 22 minutes and 22 seconds (22:22) long, "The Open Door".

As I listened, I pictured myself in front of an open door and wrote down what I believe the Lord was saying to me. I'm sharing it with you now because I believe the message wasn't just for me. I invite you to close your eyes and listen...

I truly have set an open door before you. The door is open. It's time to step over the threshold and walk into the future I have prepared for you.

Dance your way down the aisle towards me. Don't hesitate. Now is the day. Now is the time. No more waiting. No more hoping in vain.

Adorn yourself in the garments I have prepared for you, and arise my love, my fair one.

I promise that there are no unpleasant surprises. Hope restored. Joy and laughter. The long wait is over.

I've heard the deep cry of your heart, my heart has wept with yours. Let me wipe away your tears and bring joy and gladness to your heart.

Dare to hope again, dare to believe... You have not been passed over, I haven't forgotten.

Let me love you. Let me shower blessings on you and restore your soul.

Let your song rise again and sing the song that is yours and yours alone. Sing your heart out, sing loud and clear, no holding back... Sing with great conviction, sing with joy.

Come and walk with me as Enoch did. Let me share what's on my heart so that you can hear and sing the sounds of heaven.

Answer my call and allow the walls of discouragement and doubt to tumble down.

The door between heaven and earth will always be open to you. Come and dine with me, walk with me, talk with me, sing with me, love me.

Enter into life as you have longed for it to be, allow hope and expectancy to arise.

Your whole life has been preparing you for this moment. Now that you have begun again, everything that has been waiting to be birthed in you will pour out as a never-ending stream.

Today is your great awakening, no more life as before. Today is a new day. Arise and dance with your King, with the lover of your soul.

This new season is a season of open doors, successes, blessings, favour, opportunity and increase. No more decrease... Increase, good news, miracles, manifestation in the earthly realm of that which is already yours in the heavenly realms...